  → Beans and brown rice
- 250 g carrot
  → Carrots, raw
- 2 tub nasi spices
  → Spices, cardamom
- 1 chilli
  → Peppers, hot chili, green, raw
- 2 leek
  → Leeks, (bulb and lower leaf-portion), raw
- 1 pak choi
  → Cabbage, chinese (pak-choi), raw
- 1 stalk spring onions
  → Onions, spring or scallions (includes tops and bulb), raw
- 2 pack tofu
  → HOUSE FOODS Premium Firm Tofu
- 2 tub Hokkai miso

→ Almond paste

- Oil for frying (pantry)
  → Vegetable oil, NFS
- 1 tsp soya sauce for the miso butter (pantry)
  → Soy sauce
- 60 g vegan butter (pantry)
  → Butter, salted
- 1 tsp white wine vinegar (pantry)
  → Vinegar, red wine
- 1 tbsp soya sauce for the fried rice (pantry)
  → Soy sauce

Preparation

Amounts in the steps are for 2 servings, as on crisp.nl.

Step 1

Cook 150 g rice with just over double the amount of water and salt (see tip 1). Cover and simmer gently until cooked and dry in approx. 20 minutes.

Step 2

Heat plenty of oil in a wok. Peel

125 g carrot and cut into thin quarter or half moons, fry vigorously. Turn down the heat, add 1 packet nasi spices and some salt. Fry until fragrant. If desired, remove the seeds from ½ chilli, cut into pieces and fry gently.

Step 3
Remove only the darkest green from 1 leek, make a lengthwise incision, rinse out any sand and cut into thin rings, add and fry.

Step 4
Cut the stem of ½ pak choi into pieces and the leaves into strips. Gently fry the stem while you continue with the rest. Keep the leaves separate.

Step 5
Cut ½ spring onion into rings and keep separate for garnish.

Step 6
Pat the tofu dry and cut into blocks of approx. 2 cm. Heat a generous amount of vegetable oil in a frying pan. Place the tofu blocks in it and leave undisturbed over (medium) high heat for at least 5 minutes, turn over and leave for another 5 minutes until both sides are nicely brown and crispy.

Step 7
Heat 30 g vegan butter in a small saucepan until melted. Stir 1 packet miso, ½ tsp soya sauce for the miso butter and ½ tsp white wine vinegar thoroughly with a wooden spoon.

Step 8
Pour any excess oil out of the tofu pan and mix the miso butter through the tofu blocks.

Step 9

Stir the (cooked) rice, pak choi leaves and ½ tbsp soya sauce for the fried rice into the vegetables in the wok and stir-fry briefly. Season with pepper.

Step 10

Serve the fried rice with the eggs and serve with any leftover miso butter. Sprinkle with the spring onion. Good to know: The nasi spices (for 2 people) contain 0.5 tsp coriander powder, 0.5 tsp cumin powder, 0.5 tsp ginger powder, 0.5 tsp galangal, 0.5 tsp turmeric powder, 0.5 tsp fenugreek seeds and 0.5 tsp garlic powder. The 4p packet contains double. Tip 1: Have you already cooked all the rice for the spaghetti squash? Then skip this step.

Chef's notes & cookware

- Your frying pan will handle all stir-frying for the carrots, leek, pak choi stems, and the final rice mix. Use the medium pot for cooking rice and then for preparing your miso butter. The air fryer or oven is perfect for crisping the tofu (steps 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 9).
- Get ahead by prepping all your vegetables and tofu before any heat goes on: peel and cut carrots, clean and slice leek, separate and chop pak choi, slice spring onions, and pat dry and cube your tofu (steps 2, 3, 4, 5, 6).
- While your rice simmers in the medium pot and you're stir-frying the vegetables in the frying pan, utilize the air fryer or oven to crisp up your tofu blocks. This keeps the single frying pan free for the main stir-fry (steps 1, 2, 3, 4, 6).

- Start your rice immediately in the medium pot, as it requires 20 minutes to cook. Once it's simmering, you can efficiently move on to preparing and cooking your vegetables and tofu in parallel (steps 1, 2, 3, 4, 6).
- For truly crispy tofu, ensure you leave it undisturbed for the full 5 minutes on each side in the air fryer or oven. When incorporating the pak choi leaves into the fried rice, stir-fry them very briefly to retain their fresh crunch (steps 6, 9).
