Preparation

Amounts in the steps are for 2 servings, as on crisp.nl.

Step 1

Peel 600 g potatoes and cut into equal pieces. Place in a layer of water with some salt, cover and cook until tender in approx. 15 minutes.

Step 2

Peel ¾ Goudreinet apple and ¾ Jonagold apple (the Goudreinet has a duller, green skin), cut into quarters, remove the core and cut into thin slices. Cut 1 yellow onion into half rings. Heat 2 tbsp vegan butter in a large frying pan and fry the apple and yellow onion in it over a medium heat for approx. 10 minutes until soft and golden brown. Add salt and a pinch of cinnamon.

Step 3
Halve ¾ a head of chicory, remove the core (if desired) and cut into thin rings. Roughly chop 1 packet of dill.

Step 4
Heat a little oil in a frying pan and gently fry 1 packet of vegetable bacon bits until brown and crispy in approx. 8 minutes.

Step 5
Drain the potatoes (reserve some cooking liquid!). Mash finely with a potato masher. Add a knob of vegan butter and cooking liquid (or vegan milk) for creaminess and season well with pepper and salt. Stir in the fried apple and yellow onion. Stir in the chicory (or a part of it, you can keep some back as a garnish for a fresh crunch) until it wilts slightly.

Step 6
Garnish the 'hete bliksem' with optionally some raw chicory and the dill and serve with fried bacon bits and fried onions.

Chef's notes & cookware

- Use the big pot for boiling the potatoes. The single frying pan is for frying the apple and onion. The air fryer is perfect for crisping the vegan bacon bits, freeing up the frying pan (steps 1, 2, 4).
- Before turning on any heat, prepare all vegetables: peel and cut potatoes, apples, and onions, then slice chicory and chop dill. This ensures a smooth workflow once cooking begins (steps 1, 2, 3).
- Start the potatoes in the big pot first as they take the longest.

While they cook, begin frying the apple and onion in the frying pan, and simultaneously crisp the vegan bacon bits in the air fryer. This maximizes efficiency (steps 1, 2, 4).

- Don't forget to reserve some potato cooking liquid before draining; it's key for a creamy mash without adding too much fat. Mash thoroughly and season generously to taste (step 5).
- For an added layer of texture and freshness, hold back some raw chicory to use as a garnish. A pinch of cinnamon with the apples enhances their sweetness and warmth (steps 2, 5, 6).
