Spaghetti with leeks, miso and white bean sauce, palm kale, pine nuts and a chicory and apple salad

30 min active · ~58 min realistic (incl. prep) · 4 servings

Ingredients (for 4 servings)

  → not counted — no nutrition match
- 400 g wholemeal spaghetti
  → Pasta, dry, whole grain, spaghetti
- 300 g palm kale
  → Kale, raw
- 2 leek
  → Leeks, (bulb and lower leaf-portion), raw
- 2 pack cannellini beans
  → Refried beans, canned, vegetarian
- 1½ bag Dutch miso made from pumpkin seeds
  → Fish, sunfish, pumpkin seed, raw
- 1 lemon zest and juice
  → Lemon, raw
- 40 g pine nuts
  → Nuts, cashew nuts, raw

- 1½ Jonagold apple
  → Apple, raw
- 1½ a head of chicory
  → Chicory greens, raw
- 40 g fried onions
  → Fried onion rings
- 2 clove garlic (pantry)
  → Garlic, raw
- 1 tsp salt (pantry)
  → Salt, table
- A pinch of chilli flakes (optional) (pantry)
  → Cereal, wheat flakes
- 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil (pantry)
  → Olive oil

Preparation

Amounts in the steps are for 2 servings, as on crisp.nl.

Step 1

Bring a large pan of water and salt to the boil for the spaghetti. The palm kale will be added later.

Step 2

Prepare 150 g palm kale. With a sharp knife, cut a piece along the rib at the bottom of the stem, then strip the leaves from the rib with your hands. Cut the leaves into coarse strips.

Step 3
Add 200 g spaghetti to the pan (for smaller appetites, we recommend 75 g pasta per person) and bring back to the boil. Set a timer for 3 min, then the palm kale will be added for another 6 minutes.

Step 4
Heat oil or vegan butter in a large wok or deep frying pan (in which the whole dish can come together later). Score 1 leek lengthwise, rinse out any sand, and cut into rings. Cover and simmer gently until soft.

Step 5
Make the sauce. Put 1 packet of beans with their liquid, ¾ sachet of Dutch miso made from pumpkin seeds, ½ lemon zest and juice, 1 clove of garlic, the salt, plenty of black pepper and a pinch of chilli flakes (optional) into the stick blender container. Blend until smooth with (for 2 people approx. 1 tbsp) pasta cooking water and the extra virgin olive oil.

Step 6
Pour the sauce over the leeks once they are soft and gently warm through.

Step 7
Drain the pasta with palm kale (reserve some cooking water!). Mix with the leeks in the sauce and check if more cooking water is needed. Season with plenty of freshly ground black pepper.

Step 8
Toast 20 g pine nuts in a small dry

frying pan until browned.

Step 9
Meanwhile, make a simple salad. Dice ¾ of an apple and cut ¾ of a head of chicory into half-rings. Make a vinaigrette from (for 2 people) 0.5 tbsp vinegar, 1.5 tbsp extra virgin olive oil, 0.5 tsp mustard, pepper and salt.

Step 10
Garnish the pasta with 20 g fried onions and pine nuts, and serve with the fresh salad.

Chef's notes & cookware

- Use the big pot for boiling spaghetti and kale, and the frying pan for simmering leeks and combining the sauce. Toast the pine nuts in the air fryer since the frying pan will be busy (steps 1, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8).
- Before any heat goes on, prepare all your vegetables: strip and cut the palm kale, slice the leeks, and dice the apple and chicory for the salad. This ensures a smooth workflow (steps 2, 4, 9).

- As soon as the spaghetti hits the big pot, start the leeks simmering gently in the frying pan; this allows both main components to cook simultaneously. While the pasta and leeks are cooking, use the air fryer to toast the pine nuts for garnish (steps 3, 4, 8).
- Blend your bean and miso sauce while the leeks are softening; this ensures the sauce is ready to pour over them as soon as they are tender, preventing any waiting time (steps 4, 5, 6).
- When blending the sauce, add the pasta cooking water gradually to achieve a perfectly smooth and pourable consistency; remember to reserve extra pasta water when draining to adjust the final dish (steps 5, 7).
